

MAY MERGE CITY'S GERMAN SOCIETIES

Plan to Be Discussed Thursday
Would Provide Way to Meet
$1,500 License Law.

That may result in the amalgamation of the twenty-four German societies in the city into one organization is now being discussed in the plan to be outlined at a meeting called for Thursday night at the Arion Club by President August Schmidt. For some time past the societies have been hard put to it to meet the requirements of the new excise law, and while the two oldest societies, the Arion and the Senger, are expected to weather the heavy going in the shape of a $1,500 license, which must be paid within a short time, there is every indication that steps will be taken to amalgamate the various societies.

At the meeting at the Arion will be submitted a plan whereby the continued existence of the club is provided. It is planned to continue the vocal and musical activity, increasing the membership dues, and making an appeal for contributions. Last night voluntary contributions were forthcoming, which argues well for the continuation of the society.

Membership dues have been raised from $5 to $10 and an appeal for contributions also has been made. Doubling the annual dues is expected to allow the sixty-year-old organization to continue. There are, however, other causes of the financial pressure. The new plans call for an amalgamation of all the societies.

The Senger society, president of the United German Societies, heartily approves of a plan of centralizing all the German societies. The amalgamation would give the German interest in the city a more unified community, according to the president, and would cut down expenses materially, allowing them to meet under one roof, thus saving the expense of maintaining a number of establishments.

Minority May Continue Northern Dispensary

The resignation of the majority in the board of directors to permit the minority to continue the institution is one of the suggested solutions to the difficulties now besetting the governing body of the Northern Dispensary and Emergency Hospital.

On the heels of a notice issued by Secretary W. R. Garrett, calling the directors together this evening, the resignation of the majority of the board of directors of the hospital, Dr. Benjamin P. Gibbs, representing the minority, is prepared to notify all members of the board that he will be personally responsible for any part they take in disposal of the hospital.

It is argued by the majority directors that the hospital is not needed and that against the institution can be maintained by the directors favoring a continuance of the hospital as they will raise enough money to retain the hospital and be willing to pay for its continuance.

Unless an amicable settlement of the controversy is made at tomorrow night's meeting, the action will be taken to prevent the dissolution of the corporation and the sale of the effects.

House to Vote Again on Sale of Two Battleships

Another vote in the House on the Senate amendment to the naval bill providing for the sale of the battleships Idaho and Mississippi is expected this week.

It has been learned that the President is in sympathy with the provision that went into effect some days ago when it ran into a filibuster in the House.

Presidential backing for the provision has brought about a vote in the House. Another vote. Such a vote is possible, though it was thought at the time the provision was lost that this action was conclusive.

New interest is being raised in the proposed sale in the House on the strength of the belief of high officials that sale of the two battleships to Greece will prevent war between Greece and Turkey.

Whitney Avenue Church To Hold Block Carnival

Funeral Services Held For Capt. James C. Toy

Funeral services for Capt. James C. Toy, a civil war veteran, who died Friday morning at the family residence, 205 B street northeast, were held this afternoon. Interment will be in the Arlington National Cemetery.

Captain Toy, who was attached to the Second Regiment, Volunteer United States Infantry during the civil war, held a responsible position at the Government Printing Office until last January, when he resigned on account of ill health. He served in the Maryland legislature for one term, and in 1892 came to Washington, where he lived until his death. He was survived by a daughter and a son survive him.

Servian Nurses May Study American Methods

Washington Hospital officials will probably be called upon to instruct several Servian nurses in hospital administration and in teaching. Miss Slavko Grouitch, who was here last year collecting funds for the Servian Red Cross, is making efforts to have the Servian government avail itself of American methods in hospital work, and Baltimore and Washington hospitals are expected to be the institutions selected.

Don't Fail to Visit the Old British Convict Ship Success

Now in Washington, en route to San Francisco, where she will be a feature of the great Panama Exposition.

THIS WONDERFUL VESSEL HAS HISTORY.

In 1790, the convict ship "Success" was built at Bristol, England, and was purchased by the British government in 1802, when she was converted into a prison ship, and became the most famous ship of the British fleet, being generally known as "The Ocean Fleet."

She is the oldest ship in the world and the only convict ship left afloat of that dreadful fleet of ships which sailed the Seven Seas in 1790. A. D. She is undisturbed after all these years, nothing being omitted but her human freight and her soul-ferocious ferocity and her terrible and terrible practices upon those aboard her are now shown in their original state. All the atrocities and condemned cells, the whipping posts, the manacles, the iron chains, the dungeons, and the other features of man's brutality to his fellow men, are here in the most complete and complete manner ever known in the history of human progress.

Now open to the public daily, Sunday included, 9 a. m. to 10 p. m.

LOW SALARIES PAID DISTRICT OFFICIALS

Comparisons Made With Cities of Same Class by Census Bureau.

Municipal officials in Washington are paid low salaries in comparison with amounts paid officials in other cities in the same population group, according to a report made by the Census Bureau today. Washington is classified in Group 2 of cities between 20,000 and 50,000 in population.

Four cities in the group, Buffalo, Milwaukee, Cincinnati and Minneapolis, paid salaries of $5,000 a year to their treasurers. In Washington the salary is $3,000.

The auditor of Cincinnati is paid $5,000 a year, and of Newark $10,000. In Washington the auditor is paid $1,000.

The assessor in San Francisco is paid $8,000 a year. Salaries of other officers in the list are graded down with Washington near the bottom of the list, paying $4,000. Many of the cities in the classes between 20,000 and 50,000, and 50,000 and 100,000, and 100,000 and 200,000 pay higher salaries, according to census returns, than are paid District officials.

For instance, the city attorney in Mt. Vernon, N. Y., one of the smaller towns listed, is paid $5,000 a year, and the city attorney of Atlantic City is paid $8,000. The Corporation Counsel in Washington, a corresponding office, is paid $4,500 a year. In Newark the city attorney receives $5,000; in Chicago and Philadelphia, $10,000; and in New York, $20,000.

Listing the salaries of mayors the report shows that New York pays $15,000 a year, Chicago $15,000, Philadelphia $12,000, Boston, Cleveland and Pittsburgh, $10,000. In the group of cities in the same population class with Washington, the mayors of Cincinnati and New Orleans receive $10,000 a year. Only Milwaukee, which pays $4,000, is below Washington, which pays its three commissioners $3,000 a year. Mobile, Ala., and Superior, Wis., among the smaller cities, pay their mayors the same salaries as are received by the District Commissioners.

The report of the Census Bureau calls attention to the fact that the low remuneration of city officers and of the duties assigned to them.

Says Sin Often Hides Behind Mask of Beauty

That sin is frequently concealed behind a mask of beauty is the statement of the Rev. Jay T. Stocking in a sermon at the First Congregational Church on the "Duty of Religion."

Sin wears a lying mask of beauty, but evil, stripped of its mask, is always ugly. The circular of what men are doing because they would do the will of God is the most beautiful of all. It is to have a beautiful character, then obey God.

Grocers' "Near Beer" Sale Denounced as a Menace

Asserting that the sale of "near beer" at drug stores and grocery stores is a disadvantage to the liquor dealer, and, further, that it is a menace to the morals of children, who are allowed to buy "near beer" at drug stores, the other elements of the "near beer" industry, and of making gains in a few places, have been denounced by the liquor industry.

Such hopes as the Progressive party leaders had of holding their strength in the House of Representatives, and of making gains in a few places, have been denounced by the liquor industry.

THINKS G. O. P. WILL SELECT ROOSEVELT

Chairman Hinebaugh, of the Progressives, Sees Chance of Fusion in 1916.

That Colonel Roosevelt will be nominated for President in 1916, by both the Progressive party and the Republican party, is the view expressed by Chairman Hinebaugh of the Progressive Congressional committee.

Judge Hinebaugh said:

"It is my opinion that Mr. Roosevelt would be named as the Presidential candidate in 1916 by the two parties that are hostile to the party in power."

"If he lives, Mr. Roosevelt is certain to be named by the Progressives. The Republicans, if they have any expectation of winning, must accept him. Otherwise they will be a repetition of the result of 1912. We are going ahead with our work of organizing, and are making progress."

"It is my opinion, based upon returns that come to our headquarters, that we will be stronger numerically in the next Congress than we are in the present body. Things are coming our way."

This belief is general in Washington and has been accentuated by the fact Roosevelt is expected to keep silent through the present campaign owing to the condition of his throat. Many Republicans are viewing the situation in the same way.

One view is that the Progressive party is a nation-wide fight for organization this fall with a view to forcing Roosevelt's nomination in 1916 by both parties.

Some of the Progressive leaders, on the other hand, believe with Victor Murdock, that a joint nomination would mean compromise and that there can be no compromise.

Disarrange Party Plans

Unless Colonel Roosevelt changes his mind about getting into the campaign, against the advice of his London physician, he is likely to disarrange a lot of political calculations.

The Progressive leaders do not deny their disappointment. They have been their hopes for next November largely on the Roosevelt ability to command attention and support. They had planned to keep him on the stump constantly.

But it need not be imagined that merely because Colonel Roosevelt's illness needs rest, he will shut off from expressing his views. Still, for purposes of getting his campaign on a doubtful accomplishment more by touring the country and making an extensive speaking campaign.

Such hopes as the Progressive party leaders had of holding their strength in the House of Representatives, and of making gains in a few places, have been denounced by the liquor industry.

View of Democrats.

But the Progressive party leaders are not the only ones disappointed. Democratic leaders have been banking largely on his activities this fall saying openly that it was obvious Roosevelt did not want the Republicans to win the House this fall, that such an outcome would be hurtful to the Progressive party, and his own chances for getting both nominations in 1916, and that he would be relied on to tour the country, command a big Progressive party vote, and thus help the Democratic keep control of the House.

Such talk has been common in Democratic quarters in Congress. Should Roosevelt be obliged to keep off the stump, the effect of Democratic calculations obviously will be serious.

Republican leaders are naturally pleased to see the chances of the Progressive party vote, and thus help the Democratic keep control of the House.

Kill a Fly Now and You Head Off Thousands

Enough flies to bury the entire earth forty-seven feet deep will be the extent of the 1914 crop of the insects, if the disease-disseminators now active are not killed. Scientists have determined that flies multiply at a rate of one to ten in an hour, and that a single fly can pass on an egg stage to a germ-barrying, filthy pest.

The time to kill the pest is before it develops into this intolerable nuisance.

This time is when the mother fly is right in your own home, when the pest is on your premises, when it merits death by buzzing about your face and your food.

The death of one fly means a decrease of thousands in the total crop.

The death of one fly means a decrease in the mortality of any community.

The death of one fly is a great boon to sanitation.

In Washington the District Health Department, the Bureau of Entomology, the Department of Agriculture, and the Housekeepers' Alliance, together with other civic organizations that desire the Capital to be a healthful place are intent on increasing the healthfulness of the city by decreasing the horde of flies.

These different agencies invite every man, woman, and child to cooperate with them in lessening the pests and increasing health.

The great secret of how to get rid of flies is CLEANLINESS.

Clean-up and clean out the flies.

DOCTORS IN PULPITS PREACH ON HEALTH

Drs. Rucker, Wiley, and Kerr, of Washington, Deliver Sermons in Philadelphia.

Dr. William C. Rucker, Assistant Surgeon General of the Public Health Service, is back from Philadelphia today with glowing accounts of the successful "Health Sermons" preached by many physicians and surgeons, in the various pulpits in Philadelphia churches. Forty churches opened their doors to physicians.

In addition to Dr. Rucker other Washington physicians spoke. Dr. Harvey W. Wiley spoke on "Public Health" and Dr. J. W. Kerr on "Opportunities of the Church in Public Health Endeavor."

Dr. Rucker spoke before the congregation of All Souls Church, Torrens.

"The struggle for life above the poverty line is such that the day is coming when an industry must pay a living wage or stand condemned, and the church as a whole, must further social legislation and force its administration," declared Dr. Rucker.

Dr. Woods Hutchinson, of New York, pleaded for greater responsibility on the part of society and the state in the training and education of children.

Dr. Hugh Cabot, of Boston, spoke in defense of vivisection at the Third Baptist Church.

Speaking in the Deveraux S. M. E. Church, on the prevention of contagious diseases, Dr. D. T. Quigley, of North Platte, Neb., said:

"If a pet you must have, get a pig. The pig may not be so delicate and sentimental an animal as the cat and dog, and he is not a disagreeable animal besides, but he is not a disease carrier."

Dr. Charles Spencer Williamson, head of the department of medicine in the University of Illinois, occupied the pulpit in the Immaculate Baptist Church. He denounced the teaching of sex hygiene in the schools and criticized parents for not instructing the children in matters of sex.
